1878: Margaret lived with her sister Mary and her husband David DAVIDSON in Leith. The following account appears in the Fife newspapers:

The Fife Herald, November 28, 1878

Small Debt Court

"In the Small Debt Court, Cupar, on Thursday - before Sheriff Bell - David Davidson, mason, 16 Springfield Street, Leith Walk, Leith, sued James Paterson or Renton, spirit dealer, Kinglassie, for £12 for expenses incurred by him in keeping his sister-in-law during her confinement of a child to defender. It appeared from the evidence that Margaret Bremner, a native of Wick, pursuer's sister-in-law, became acquainted with the defender in the month of July last year. He told her his name was James Paterson, and that he was an unmarried man. She subsequently became with child to him, when he said he would look for a room in Kirkcaldy where she could stay till after her confinement. It was ultimately agreed, however, that she should live with her brother-in-law, and that defender should pay 5s a week for her accommodation, and all other expenses. It was a considerable time after her confinement before she was able to work, and when she was able to do so she could not get a situation for want of character, and she was therefore still living with her brother-in-law. Defender also promised that as soon as the child was eight months old he would take it home and endeavour to get a situation for its mother. With the exception of £1, which went to pay the expenses of taking the child to the infirmary, she had received no money from him. Defender denied that he said he was an unmarried man, when he became acquainted with the girl Bremner, and was not aware that he was known by the name of Paterson. Hel also alleged that he had paid various sums of money to her, including £2 10s to a Mr. Conolly, who had represented himself as a legal gentleman, but had subsequently disappeared. He also stated that when making the arrangements with the pursuer there was nothing said regarding her support. His Lordship said that the defender, being a married man, and having seduced this young woman, considered secrecy of the greatest importance, and had no doubt he employed Davidson to alimnet the girl during her illness. Decree was granted for £5, with £2 7s 1d expenses."
