" A very interesting function took place the other evening in the Public School, Daviot, when Rev, James BREBNER, Forgue -- on whom the University of Aberdeen recently conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity -- was presented by old pupils with an address and a purse and sovereigns, in token of their indebtedness to him for all he had been to them during the ten years (1859 - 1869) he was schoolmaster of Daviot."

Aberdeen Evening Express, Monday 26 January 1914

"Joinery Works Burned to Ground."

"Shortly after midnight on Saturday fire broke out in the joinery works of Messrs. Thomas Brebner and Son, builders and wood merchants, situated in College Bounds and Albert Street, Fraserburgh. Fanned by a stiff breeze, the flames rapidly gained a firm hold, and in a short space of time the large sawmill, steam joinery workshop, and the engine-house were burned down."

"Owing to the hold obtained, the efforts of the Fire Brigade proved unavailing so far as the saving of the building and plant was concerned., and the firemen directed their attention to the huge piles of timber stored in the yard. The area of the fire extended over a quarter of an acre, and the glare of the flames lighted up the surrounding districts for miles, and it was far into Sunday morning before the flames were extinguished."

"Owing to the late hour at which the outbreak took place, comparatively few people were on the scene until practically all the buildings had been destroyed. In addition to the sawmill, workshop, and engine-house, all the valuable up-to-date joinery machines, and a large stock of workmen's tools were lost. A substantial quantity of manufactured wood, including the doors, windows, and other fittings for half a dozen dwelling-houses, was also completely burned."

"The fire had originated at the Albert Street end of the workshop, but the cause of the outbreak is unknown. The total damage is estimated at £2500, and is only partially covered by insurance. The proprietors of the works are ex-Baillie Thomas Brebner and his son, Mr. James Brebner."
